

Management Controls For Loss Prevention

Organizations are usually successful because they do a good job of establishing adequate controls to assure that corporate objectives are met. When considering objectives, it should be realized that safety and efficiency go hand in hand. A worthwhile objective for any firm should be to produce and deliver a quality product as safely and efficiently as possible.

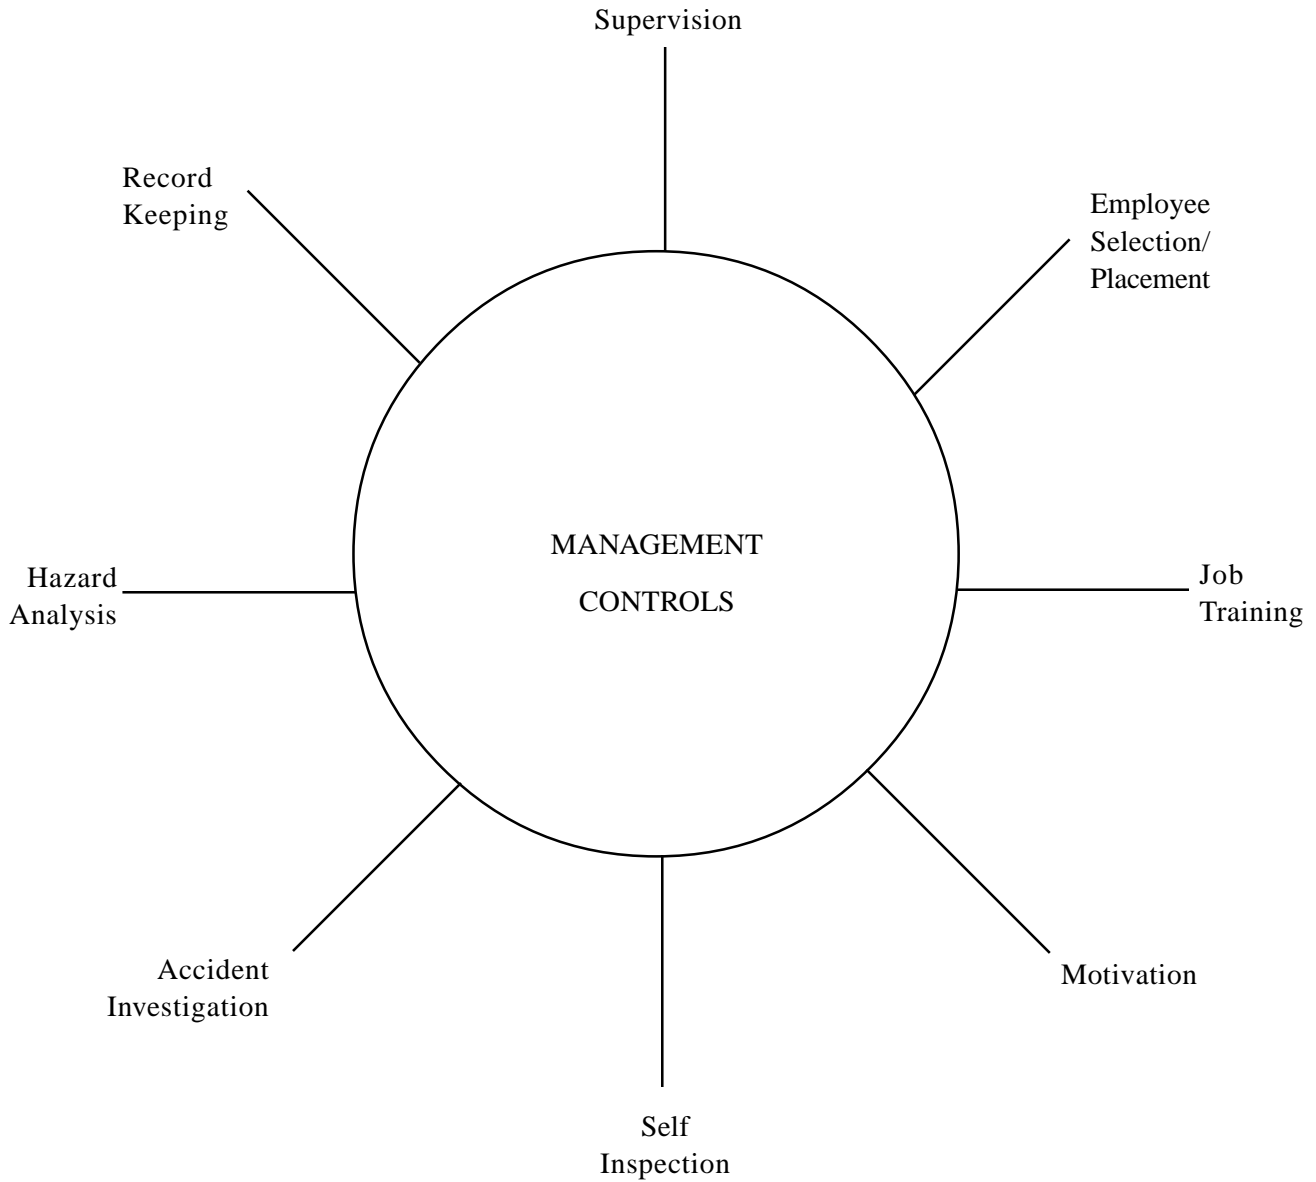

The same lack of management controls that result in accidents will also result in other operational failures. Objectives for Loss Prevention, efficiency, and quality all require the establishment of adequate management controls, if they are to be attained.

The following management controls for Loss Prevention should be considered:

1. Supervision
2. Employee Selection and Placement
3. Job Training
4. Motivation
5. Self Inspection
6. Accident Investigation
7. Hazard Analysis
8. Recordkeeping

Contact your local Great American Loss Prevention Specialist for additional information.

Management Controls For Loss Prevention

The loss prevention information and advice presented in this brochure are intended only to advise our insureds and their managers of a variety of methods and strategies based on generally accepted safe practices, for controlling potentially loss producing situations commonly occurring in business premises and/or operations. They are not intended to warrant that all potential hazards or conditions have been evaluated or can be controlled. They are not intended as an offer to write insurance coverage for such conditions or exposures, or to imply that Great American Insurance Company will write such coverage. The liability of Great American Insurance Company is limited to the specific terms, limits and conditions of the insurance policies issued.